Canadian Utilities Annual Report Terms 1959 Progress "Outstanding"

Outstanding progress in all phases of company operations was recorded during 1959, according to the 33rd annual report of Canadian Utilities Limited, released by J. C. Dale, president.

Sale of electrical energy reached an all-time high of 216,900,000 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 18 percent over the previous year. Gross revenue of $6,975,103 was up $923,251, an increase of 15 percent over 1958. The ratio of expenses and depreciation to sales was lower than in the previous year, while net income increased by $284,479 to a total of $1,436,032.

Gross 1959 capital additions reached $2,857,000, major item being 123 miles of 69,000 volt transmission lines in the Vegreville and Swan Hills Districts.

The number of customers being served by the company reached 44,055, including 11,798 farm customers served over 10,773 miles of rural lines.

Canadian Utilities supply electric power in Vegreville, Drumheller and Grande Prairie districts as well as Fort McMurray and Whitehorse districts through its subsidiary companies, the McMurray Light and Power Company and the Yukon Electrical Company Ltd.

During 1959, the generating plant and distribution system at Fort Chipewyan in northern Alberta was completed. Operations in the Yukon Territory were further extended by the purchase of the generating plant and distribution system in Watson Lake, at Mile 632 on the Alaska Highway.

Canadian Utilities anticipates spending $3,230,400 on its capital works program in 1960. Major projects include additions to generating plants at Vermilion and Sturgeon as well as transmission lines to Swan Hills and line extensions to Cold Lake air base.

City Chamber Has Recommendations

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, following its weekly meeting, announced recommendations to City Council, and to the provincial government.

The Metropolitan and Industrial Development Committee of the Chamber endorsed the resolution of the Civic Industrial Development Board that an average price of four cents an acre plus local improvements charges be set for city industrial land. This, said a chamber spokesman, would bring prices of city-owned industrial land more in line with Calgary prices.

The chamber re-affirmed its stand for amalgamation of Edmonton, Beverly, Jasper Place and contiguous industrial areas. It went on record, however, as feeling that the industrial tax controversy has clouded the amalgamation question, and that the two propositions should not be confused.

And the Edmonton Chamber requested the Alberta Chamber to press the Alberta Government to complete work on the divided No. 1 highway north to Edmonton as soon as possible.

Cherniowskis Visit Calgary Technical

Mr. and Mrs. John Cherniowski motored to Calgary on March 9 to attend open house at the Calgary Technical School where their son Kenneth is a student. Mr. Eli Ulan, also a student from Mundare, showed the Cherniowski's through the school as Kenneth was playing in the school band which entertained all afternoon.

Mrs. Cherniowski said they enjoyed it very much and it was very interesting to see all the wonderful work the boys do. After their tour they visited with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Frunchuk. They returned home the following day.

Plan Important Changes For Town Planning

Alberta will see important changes in town planning laws, it was indicated in the Legislature by Hon. A. J. Hooke, minister of Municipal Affairs.

Town planning and zoning came while the House was in committee studying budget estimates of the municipal affairs department. During coming fiscal year, estimates include $192,700 to be spent in the coming year by the planning advisory board.

Changes are being proposed, said Mr. Hooke, with the thought in mind that many people can't recover adequate compensation for property lost through zoning town planning decisions.

Dr. E. G. Hansell (SC Okotoks-High River) started it by saying town planning authorities are assuming powers that don't rightfully belong to them.

He warned against the tendency of elected legislatures and councils placing too much authority in the hands of boards and commissions made up of civil servants.

Dr. Hansell also read from the report of the Porter Commission inquiry into Edmonton civic affairs in which Mr. Justice Porter expressed concern over the tendency of town planners to infringe on private property rights.

Mr. Hooke said no one would disagree that the rights of individuals should be protected.

It seemed strange to him that everyone agrees there should be orderly development "until he bumps into town planning. Then 90 per cent of the people get on their high horse and say, "What does the planning commission think it is doing?"

The McNally Commission report on Edmonton and Calgary metropolitan problems recommended wide powers be given to planning commissions, he said.

This was one of the first recommendations implemented, but the government subsequently has had to remove the wide powers, he said.

He felt the elected municipal council should be the final authority, and this was the case in every community with a zoning bylaw. Otherwise, the provincial board has the final say.

Report From The Legislature

Now that the budget estimates of revenue and expenditures have been approved for the year 1960, I think all the residents of the Willingdon constituency will find it interesting to know that Government assistance to municipalities and residents will again be increased. The formula under which operational grants are paid to school boards will require an additional $5,000,000. The second year of the government Five Year Plan program emphasizes construction of roads, sidewalks and recreational facilities, and $5,300,000 has been appropriated for this purpose. In addition, the normal program of assistance for highways, bridges and other structures in municipalities will be increased to $15,550,000. The unconditional grants under the Municipal Assistance Act will again total $15,000,000. This amount is a refund of approximately half the amount collected from the tax on gasoline. To summarize it all, it is interesting to note that total direct municipal assistance is estimated to be $96,631,000 for the coming fiscal year.

The Alberta Hospitalization Benefit Plan is well under way, and all residents can now obtain hospitalization for a maximum charge of $2.00 per day plus a 4-mill tax on the municipal assessment. Patients suffering from mental diseases, polio, tuberculosis and cancer are cared for. The cost to the province of this indirect assistance is estimated to be $35,126,000 and the total cost of both direct and indirect assistance will be $131, 757,000 which is 41.98% of our total revenue.

Many of those who heard Mr. Hinman, the provincial treasurer say that Alberta ranks seventh in the amounts it pays its members of the legislature, when he presented the budget several weeks ago, have asked me to explain how one treasurer arrived at that rank. I think it would be interesting for all readers to know how much each of the ten Canadian provinces pays its members of the legislature. The following is the scale:

Quebec $10,000 a year, Newfoundland $5500, Ontario $5400, British Columbia $5000, Saskatchewan $4800, Nova Scotia $4800, Alberta $4500, Manitoba $4000, New Brunswick $3600, Prince Edward Island $1500.

It is also interesting to note that the salary of our premier is $14,000 which is $1000 less than that of the mayor of the City of Edmonton which is $15,000. Each of the Alberta cabinet ministers receives a salary of $11,000. The ministers do have a pension scheme, but there is no pension scheme for Alberta M.L.A's.

Basketball Tourney At Vermilion

TWO HILLS — Once again the Two Hills high school basketball teams, Tigers and Tigerettes, competed in the Vermilion school of agriculture basketball tournament held at Vermilion.

The Tigerettes, in the finals last year, defeated Cold Lake but lost to Andrew and Glendon this year. The Tigers again reached the finals by defeating Hughenden (default), Dewberry, Andrew, Cold Lake and Glendon. They lost to Wainwright in the first game but won the second game. Other teams competing were Mannville and Vermilion school of agriculture. The Two Hills cheerleaders, a group of eight girls dressed in black sweaters and gold skirts, contributed to the enjoyment of the tournament by their songs and cheers.

Jack Zukiwsky Wins

WILLINGDON — Two carloads of local curling fans journeyed to Edmonton Saturday night to see a local rink, skipped by Jack Zukiwsky who was supported by Lloyd Babiuk, Jerry Triska and William Pawliuk, win the Hudson's Bay trophy in the sixth event of the Edmonton Open Bonspiel. This is the second time that Zukiwsky has brought back a trophy from the Edmonton bonspiel; several years ago he won the King Edward Hotel event.

Kost Feniak Pioneer, Dies

WILLINGDON — On March 18, 1960, Kost Feniak of Willingdon passed away at the age of 91 years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pearl Feniak of Willingdon; four sons and three daughters John of Mundare, William of Hilliard, Peter and Nick of Willingdon, Mrs. (Anna) Sam Maciborsk of Alder Flats, Mrs. (Anastasia) Hnat Wuzyk of Alder Flats, Mrs. (Pearl) Andrew Shewchuk of Whitelaw, 27 grandchildren, 47 great grandchildren, one brother, Mr. George Feniak of Whitelaw.

Prayer services were held on March 21, at 8:00 p.m. at the Willingdon Community Hall, funeral services were held on March 22 at 10:00 a.m. at St. Demetrius Russo Orthodox Church at Mundare, and interment took place in the church cemetery. Rev. J. Kowalchuk officiating.

Ladies' Auxiliary Hold Tea March 17

TWO HILLS — The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion No. 237 St. Patrick's tea was held in the Elks Hall on Thursday, March 17, starting at 2:30 p.m.

Shamrocks decked the tea tables and scrolls of Irish songs were hung on the walls.

The variety of baking for the bake sale was a marvel to see. The Shamrock bordered teacloth on this table was striking. During the tea time Mrs. E. Simpson supplied soft music on the piano. The draw for the framed petit point picture was won by little Miss Ludwina Tkachuk of Willingdon.

Edmonton Dancer Makes Debut

LONDON — Susan Davies, 14-year-old native of Edmonton, made her dancing debut in the Royal Opera House last week. It coincided with the first major public appearance of Princess Margaret and her fiance, Antony Armstrong-Jones.

With seven other girls and eight boys from the Royal Ballet school, she took part in a program of folk dancing. It was part of a gala charity performance at the opera house.

Appropriately, one of the dances in the program was Margaret's Fancy.

BLUSHING LADY

LONDON — Brenda Hickson stripped for her bath and poked a finger in the tap to make the water run faster. Her finger stuck, and it took a crew of firemen to break open the bathroom door and free the blushing lady.

THE Homemaker

By MRS. E. DURIE

In recent years the pattern industry has revised Standard of Body Measurements for patterns. The sizing of patterns and ready-made garments may not necessarily be the same. When you are selecting a pattern for a new garment go by your measurements, not the size of your last ready-made garment.

Mrs. E. Durie

Body Measurements. It is important to remember that it is body measurements not pattern measurements, that have been standardized. In other words a standard has been set up indicating that if one's bust, waist, hip and back waist length measurements, or such-and-such, the size is son-and-so, no matter which company makes the pattern.

These standardized body measurements serve two purposes: 1. They show what pattern size and what pattern type to select; and 2. when one's own body measurements are compared with the standards, they show what basic alterations, if any, should be made in the pattern before cutting out the garment.

Pattern Measurments. In scaling patterns for figures having these standard body measurements the actual measurements of the pattern itself are not made to coincide with the body measurement. If they were, the completed garment would fit skin-tight and the wearer would be unable to move comfortably when wearing it.

Every pattern has to have some "tolerance" or "ease" to allow free movement in the finished garment. Thus, although the pattern may have been designed for a 34-inch bust, the actual bust measurement of the pattern itself will be more than 34 inches. The same is true of waist, hips, & back waist length. Ease of tolerance figures, when quoted, are those used in a plain basic dress, but again the design of the garment itself determines how much ease has been allowed. Obviously a softly draped bodice will contain more ease than a very fitted bodice; and the pattern for the draped bodice will differ in measurement from the pattern for the fitted bodice.

Choosing Pattern Size. The bust measurement must be taken to select the correct size pattern for a blouse, dress coat, jacket or suit.

In the case of skirts, slacks or shorts your pattern size is determined by waist and hip masurement. If the individual's hips are larger than waist and hip measurements of the chart, then hip measurement is the determining factor in pattern selection. Similarly if the waist measurement fits the chart and hip measurement less than the chart then purchase according to waist measurement. This season the pattern industry has developed short and slack patterns in three heights. These patterns will vary not only in leg length but also the depth of waist to crotch.

Each of the five major pattern manufacturers in addition to children's, men's and boys' styles and sizes, patterns for the girl, teen, junior and Miss - woman figure types. Some also make patterns for the sub-teen and half-size figures. Though bust measurements may be the same in two different figure types of the same size designation, the height of these two figures will vary. Hence, when selecting a pattern check your bust, waist and back length and select a pattern that suits your actual figure measurement closest.

ALEX WILSON, an evangelist of the Brethren, is conducting nightly evangelistic services at the new gospel chapel at 9302-95 Street. The meetings started Sunday and will continue for an indefinite period. Mr. Wilson has been in evangelistic work for 28 years, strictly on a "faith" basis, since there are no paid ministers in the Brethern group. The lay preacher has travelled extensively in western Canada and the U.S. and makes his home at Abbotsford. YOUNG IDEAS from Polly Ponds
Q: "I have big hands and knobby elbows and think they look horrible. Is there anything I can do about them?"
A: You can stop regarding them as horrible; they're not. Big hands can be a definite beauty asset and your elbows are probably not half as knobby as they seem to your hyper-critical eyes.
Get into the habit of being proud of your hands. Treat them to a manicure a couple of times a week; file the nails into neat, even ovals and tint them with polish. If you're lucky enough to have long, slim fingers, unusual and dramatic shades will look especially well at their tips.
Use a hand lotion whenever you've been dipping into water. Smooth, unchapped hands are always lovely to look at, regardless of size. You might, by the way, massage some of the lotion into your elbows to prevent them from looking dark, rumpled and, incidentally, knobby.

THE 3 FACES OF EVE

By Corbett T. Thigpen, M.D., and Hervey M. Cleckley, M.D.

This is the true story of one of the most remarkable cases of multiple personality in all medical history as told by the two doctors who treated the case.

Eve White, a shy, demure housewife, is under treatment for agonizing headaches. Suddenly, before the doctors' very eyes, she changes into a saucy, flirtatious woman who calls herself Eve Black.

She tells the doctors that she occasionally takes possession of Eve White's body. She seems to know all about Eve White, but Eve White doesn't know about her.

Chapter 4

During his first hour's interview with the energetic and capricious woman who called herself Eve Black, the physician had often reminded himself that Ralph White was outside in the waiting room.

Eve White's auditory hallucinations established beyond a doubt the deep gravity of her psychiatric illness, and he deemed it advisable that she enter the hospital. Would the husband believe such a report as the physician must give him?

The physician decided that the husband must meet Eve Black in person, must see her himself, and speak with her directly. Otherwise he would probably lose confidence in the physician and, perhaps, refuse to let his wife be admitted to the hospital.

With such thoughts in mind he asked the patient, "What do you think we ought to do now?"

"Lord Doc," she said smiling amiably as she rocked the crossed leg gently over the other smooth knee, "How would I know? Watching you work with her so long I've got to kind of like you. I'm willing to try most anything you say."

DOESN'T LIKE HIM

He asked her if she would be willing to talk with Ralph White.

"Why should I talk with him, Doc?" she answered, a little startled. "I don't like the man and I don't want to have nothing to do with him, either."

She said finally that she would be willing to do what she could to make things better for Eve White, but her statement did not carry great conviction. The physician explained that he felt it necessary for Eve White to come into the hospital and to stay for a while in the psychiatric section.

Eve Black admitted that it was none of her business what the other Eve might decide to do, but made it plain that she herself did not relish the idea of finding herself on a "bughouse ward." She did not want to be limited by its restrictions if she succeeded in getting out during the period of Eve White's hospitalization.

"I've already got a date for the dance out at Ten Mile Tavern next Friday night," she said. "Her husband's planning to be away for the night on business and she'd made plans to take Bonnie and spend the night at a girl friend's house. There's a good chance I might get out that night."

SERIOUSNESS EXPLAINED

The seriousness of Eve White's disorder was then carefully explained. The girl listened politely but showed little serious concern.

The physician decided it was necessary to be more frank, to emphasize some points he had hoped might be left unspoken. He told this girl that he did not know what course Eve White's illness might take. The auditory hallucinations, no matter how one might account for them, suggested that she might become much worse.

If she became profoundly irrational, perhaps dangerous to herself and others, she might have to remain confined in an institution for many months, perhaps for years. Because of her husband's limited financial resources, commitment to the State Hospital would be her only choice. With Eve White confined thus, there would be no place to go, nothing very interesting to do when Eve Black emerged for her "times out".

Now as the point about confinement sank slowly into the debonair girl's awareness, she was forced to agree that her own future would be jeopardized if Eve White grew worse; prolonged confinement of the other would mean confinement also for her.

"I think you got something there, Doc," she said reluctantly.

AGREES TO HOSPITAL

She agreed then for the coteenant of her body to go into the hospital, and promised not to exert any force or influence available to her to prevent this step or to impede or disrupt treatment.

She also agreed to refrain from whatever she did that (according to her) resulted in Eve White's hearing voices. But she would not promise to do all she could to relieve the other's headaches.

"Why, if I did that, Doc, I might not ever be able to get out again."

Eve Black agreed to reveal her identity to Ralph White and to discuss the situation with him. Sitting with him in another office the physician wondered how the deeply worried, and already bewildered husband should be prepared for what he was to encounter.

It was deemed inadvisable to offer him at this point any theoretical explanations of dual personality or to emphasize the fact that a few similar manifestations had ben extensively described in the medical and psychologic literature.

HUSBAND SEES HER

It was decided to let Ralph first see this woman who called herself Eve Black. He had lived with his wife for almost seven years. Certainly he should be able to recognize her through any disguise, be it of play-acting, hysteria, or of psychosis. No matter what changes might have occurred in this woman, he should be able to discern features inaccessible to another that would establish for him her identity as Eve White.

When brought into the presence of Eve Black by the physician, this husband was, of course, immediately confronted by an infinity of detail to him long familiar. The hair on this woman's head, every strand of it, was his wife's hair. The nose, ears, eyebrows, all the lines and contours of the face were intimately known by him as her very own.

Contradicting all this came the brash, unfamiliar voice in which Eve Black said that she had never married him, that she was no wife of his. Anatomically this face was the face he knew, but all that it expressed was alien.

At the beginning of the interview, it semed to the physician that Ralph White, though amazed and genuinely distressed, clung to the idea that nervous instability and emotional stress had led his wife, through some fantastic caprice, to adopt this unheard-of attitude. Patiently he tried to reason with her as one might with a child who, in speech and behavior, is carrying out the absurdities of a tantrum.

"WHAT ABOUT BONNIE"

In the discussion with Ralph, Eve Black repeated most of what she had already told the physician. And as Ralph, for whom she acknowledged only an impersonal acquaintance, found himself unable to break down any pretences or make her admit the folly of her statements, despair and finally something akin to awe seemed to possess him.

Grasping for what he knew to be his wife's deepest feelings, Ralph White, after a moment of perplexed and tense silence, slowly said, "Bonnie . . . our little girl . . . what about Bonnie . . . ? what shall we . . . what can I . . . ?"

"Why ask me?" she interupted him. "Do what you like about the kid. How many times am I goin to have to tell you I got nothing to do with your child—or with you either." Her eyes drifted from him, as if her attention had turned to other matters. She leaned forward a little and absent-mindedly began to scratch a knee.

"These damn nylon stockings she puts on! They always make me itch!" she said.

HYPNOSIS WOULDN'T WORK

After leaving the room Ralph and the physician talked at length. Permission was freely granted for the patient to enter the hospital and receive treatment.

It then became appropriate, one might say to locate the patient who was to receive treatment. Eve White on a previous occasion had gone into hynosis without difficulty. Perhaps if the present Eve could be hynotized the other personality might emerge or somehow be brought out.

This girl said she had no objections to the procedure. Though she seemed co-operative, several attempts were unsuccessful. It may be noted here that, though Eve White was subsequently put under hynosis on many occasions, Eve Black remained refractory though numerous other attempts were made.

After some discussion the girl suggested that the physician call Eve White by name. Her eyes closed as the name "Eve White" was called.

EVE WHITE COMES BACK

A moment later they slowly opened, now quiet, cautious, looking to the physician more pale, as if they had actually been drained of color.

THE DOCTOR asked, "Do you ever have the feeling that deep down in you there's still somebody that you used to be, somebody you can't quite reach?" After pondering a few moments, she said, "I . . . I don't know." Read Chapter 4 in this week's instalment of the astounding, true story of a woman with a multiple personality. See "The Three Faces of Eve" in this paper.

This face wore the habitual expression of Eve White. Instead of the animation and vitality it had reflected only a few minutes ago, there was now an inconspicuous sweetness, a delicate poise almost masking the faint lines of tension.

Automatically she moved a little in the chair, apparently finding the easy posture that had been adopted by her alternate unfamiliar or a little incongruous. Her legs assumed a more sedate position, with knees and feet together.

"What happened?" asked the physician.

he paused as if to think back. "I don't know," she said in her slow, precise voice. "Was it anything very much . . . ? I might have had a blackout . . . but I'm not sure." She smiled. "My head, Doctor, the pain has all gone."

"I . . . I DON'T KNOW"

The physician now talked with Eve White at some length, reviewing particularly all items that it seemed logical to think might still some latent awareness or still unrealized capacity for recollection that might serve as a link between the two manifestations.

He finally asked: "Do you ever have the feeling, pehaps for a moment, that deep down in you there's still somebody that you used to be, somebody you can't quite reach?"

She looked up at him with puzzled eyes. After pondering a few moments, she said, "I . . . I don't know what you mean."

He suggested that she enter the hospital and, discussing plans for this with her, he noted that her reactions were those of one who had heard nothing of what he had said on this subject a little earlier to Eve Black.

Next week— Eve White recalls an important and terrifying incident of her childhood. (From the book The Three Faces of Eve, copyright 1957, by Corbett H. Thigpen and Hervey M. Cleckley, and published by McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc.) Distributed by The Register and Tribune Syndicate.

☆ STARS ☆ in your eyes

By FRANK PAGE

"If the stars came out only once in a thousand years," said Emerson, "everyone would go out to look at them." Amid the glare of modern city lighting, the stars tend to pass unnoticed by the average person. It is to point out some of the wonders of the night skies that this series of articles is being presented.

Look towards the south-east on any clear morning during the next month or two, and northern Albertans will see two largest planets of the solar system, Jupiter and Saturn. During the present weekend the spectacle will be unusually beautiful, for on Sunday at about 4 p.m., the moon will be very near to Jupiter. By Monday morning, April 21, it will have travelled some degrees farther east and will be in the neighborhood of Saturn. Your best time for viewing these planets will be about two or three hours before sunrise.

FRANK PAGE

Jupiter is by far the largest planet of the Solar System, and is the possessor of twelve moons. Of these, four are clearly visible even to a telescope of low power. Galileo was the first to see them when, in 1610, he turned on them his crude little 3-power telescope. If you have a pair of binoculars, look for these moons, which appear like tiny gems of light on either side of the planet. If you watch long enough, you may see one of them disappear behind the planet, to emerge some time late, at the other edge, as it travels on its orbit around the planet.

Space vehicles of the future may yield much more information about this great planet, but it is highly improbable that it will ever be colonized by earthlings. Its temperature of minus 200 degrees Fahrenheit, and its poisonous atmosphere of amonia and methane gases, can hardly be regarded as inviting settlement.

65 Mixed Voices For Big Concert

This year the Christian Training Institute of Edmonton will again hold its annual Sacred Concert on on Sunday, March 20 at 3 p.m., in the Alberta Jubilee Auditorium. The program under the leadership of Rev. E. B. Link will consist of numbers rendered by the 65 voice mixed chorus, Jubilee Choristers, Male Choir, and quarteis.

The following are some of the numbers to be rendered: Psalm 150 — Hallelujah, L. Liwandowski; Psalm 92 — Das Ist Ein Koestliches Ding, C. Palmer; Serve the Lord in Youthful Days, E. Tillotson; My! Didn't It Rain?, C. C. Mourer; The Omnipotence, Franz Schubert; All in the April Evening, Noble Cain; Worthy is the Lamb That Was Slain, G. T. Handel; What Are These That Are Arrayed in White Robes, John Stainer; O Divine Redeemer, Gonound.

The feature will be a drama in song and word, the "Prodigal — 1960" based on Luke 15.

The Jubilee Choristers, a select group of thirty-two voices, will this year again make its annual tour, which will be its seventh. The tours have taken in many churches on the North American Baptist Conference. In the past, tours have been made in the southern and central parts of the United States and along the West Coast.

Churches in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba will again be visited this year where special concerts will be presented.

The program, considered to be one of the most comprehensive in the world, features Poison Treatment Centres at all hospitals in Alberta and Central Poison Information Centres at Edmonton and Calgary.

The Poison Treatment Centres have been equipped with an index system listing 2400 common household drugs, chemicals and pesticides, their chemical properties and antidotes. The necessary instruments and antidotes to treat an emergency case of poisoning will be installed in each centre.

Poison Information Centres will be staffed 24 hours a day at Edmonton and Calgary, to supply in-

Grain Solution Promised In House

OTTAWA — An equalization of grain delivery opportunities on the prairies "before much time has elapsed" was forecast by Trade Minister Churchill.

He said in the commons that inequalities in grain delivery quotas in some areas of the West are the result of the need to move large quantities of tough and damp grain to Lakehead terminals for drying during the fall and winter.

License Plate Sales About 800 Per Day

Officials of the motor vehicles branch in Edmonton say licence plate sales have slowed down to about 700 to 800 sets per day. The sales office in the highways building can handle up to 3,000 sales a day. Officials say that with 25 percent of the renewal period gone, only two percent of the operators have renewed their plates.

Red Deer Voters Reject High School

Separate school ratepayers voted against plans to spend $190,000 for a new high school.

Ballots were cast by 309 voters, nine more than were first estimated to be eligible. The vote was 157 against, 148 for.

ALBERTANS MIGHT take up a project following the example of a CBC television personality and his wife in connection with World Refugee Year. For the first time in Canada a community has banded together to sponsor a refugee family from Europe. Sparked by Mrs. Jo Davis, the 430 resident of Orchard Heights, Port Credit, Ontario subdivision, met the challenge of World Refugee Year and through determined effort overcame all obstacles to win approval of the plan and select a family. Now Mario and Anna Kesner and their three children, interned since 1958 in an Italian refugee camp, have a sponsor in this warmhearted community. Pictured above Jo Davis and husband Fred Davis, television personality, sign the sponsorship papers while community representatives watch.

P.M., PREMIER AFFIRM:

No Tar Sands Blast Without Alberta's, Canada's Consent

A comment by a United States Atomic Energy Commission member that the commission is going ahead with plans to set off a small atomic explosion in the Athabasca tar sands prompted quick replies to the contrary from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Manning this week.

The prime minister said no type of nuclear test should be considered to separate the fuel from the sand as long as the East-West disarmament negotiations at Geneva continue. They may go on for two years.

Premier Manning assured members of the legislature that no tests will take place without Alberta government approval, adding that the blast would create no radiation dangers.

When James Speakman (PC-Wetaskiwin) asked about a report from Washington concerning a nuclear detonation in the oil sands, Mr. Diefenbaker replied in the commons:

"Any decision as to whether or not a nuclear test explosion will be made in Canada in connection with the Athabasca sands depends entirely on the government of Canada and is not a question which the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission can decide.

Municipalities Will Retain Autonomy

Municipal affairs minister Hooke said in the legislature, the taking over of taxation of industry by the province will not reduce municipal autonomy.

He pointed out that some municipalities get as much as 80 percent of their revenue from government grants while others get 40 percent in provincial assistance. Each has, he said, as much autonomy as the other.

Mr. Hooke went on to say that rural municipalities favour the industrial tax plan because the alternative, amalgamation, would mean losing all the tax producing area.

Fish continue to grow until they die.

Alberta Farmer Builds Dryer For Only $300

Faced with the problem of having on hand a large quantity of tough and damp grain, Tom Kepling of Drumheller set out to build himself a dryer.

The total cost of the equipment used was in the vicinity of $300 says S. W. Pettem, district agriculturist for the Drumheller area. It consisted of a large centrifugal fan, originally used to ventilate a coal mine, and a million and a half B.T.U. second-hand furnace.

A false bottom was built to fit into the truck box. It was constructed with 2" x 4" overlaid with sand screen and fly screen. A warm air duct leads from the furnace and is attached to the false bottom of the truck box which is partially raised by the hoist for alignment. A thermometer is kept in the warm air duct and a temperature of 110 degrees maintained. This prevents spoilage due to overheating which is the biggest hazard encountered in grain drying.

Using low grade stoker coal and a diesel tractor to drive the fan, the cost of drying grain from tough to dry, is approximately one cent per bushel. The capacity is about 400 bushels in a ten hour day, says Mr. Pettem.

U.S.A. FARM NEWS

AGRICULTURE ACROSS THE LINE

By J. S. Russell

The naming of Clifford Hope of Garden City, Kans., as chief advisor for Vice-President Richard Nixon, could have some far-reaching consequences.

In the first place, it would seem to indicate that Nixon in his quest for the presidency does not plant to run on Eisenhower's farm record. More specifically, it means that Nixon is having no part of Secretary of Agriculture Benson and probably that the Farm Bureau leadership will be alienated.

J. S RUSSELL

Hope, who has a record of long service in congress and who was a Republican leader in the house on matters of agriculture, and as chairman of the house committee on agriculture, does not see eye to eye with Benson on matters of farm policy.

Recently he has been identified with the National Wheat Growers Association which seeks a type of legislation regarding a wheat program which is opposed by Benson and by President Charles Shuman and Secretary Roger Fleming of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Recently the Grange, the Wheat Growers' Association and the Farmers' Union are reported to have agreed on a program to stabilize wheat producers' income "at a reasonable level and will emphasize managed marketing rather than dependence on government loans and storage".

This program also would do away with acreage allotments and probably put into effect some sort of a two-price plan. This plan also has been described as the marketing agreements approach.

At any rate, the naming of Hope apparently signals a break with the administration on farm policy. Nixon has had conferences with some midwestern Republicans recently who apparently were pleased that he indicated to them that he was not for Benson's program or policies.

The economists at the University of Illinois point out that the principal reason that so many cattle feeders in that state had lower returns in 1959 than in 1958 is because they paid too much for their feeder cattle.

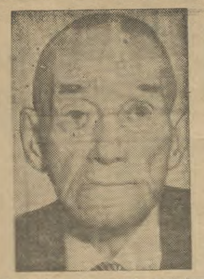
Returns above feed costs on long feed steer calves dropped to $17 a head from $52 the year before and on short feed steers to $26 from $50.

New Runway For Peace River Airport

OTTAWA — Construction of a 5,000-foot runway at the Peace River airport in northern Alberta is due to start this year, transport minister Hees said.

In a return tabled in the Commons for William Benidickson (L — Kenora-Rainy River), he said the new runway will be 150 feet wide and will be equipped with medium intensity lighting. An aircraft parking space and taxiways also are to be started this year.

For this year, $584,000 is to be spent.



MARKING his 104th birthday recently, Fred Venator of Toronto celebrated with a huge birthday cake trimmed with a chocolate oak log because "oak trees grow to a great old age." Venator, only survivor in a family of 10, was born at Dundas, Ont., the year the first passenger train service opened between Montreal and Toronto.

U. S. CATTLE

Cattle numbers in the United States reached a record high of 101.5 million head on January 1. This was 5 percent more than at the same date a year ago.

Deadline Nears For Renewal Of Brands

The deadline for 1959 brand renewals is March 31. Farmers and ranchers who have not yet applied for a renewal and whose registered brands were due for renewal prior to December 31 are urged to do so before this date.

A brand to be maintained in good standing has to be renewed once every four years, says Alberta's brand recorder S. B. Clarke. The year the brand is due for renewal a notice is sent out on September 1. If no reply is received by the brand office by December 31 of that year, a final notice is sent out early in February.

Every year quite a number of notices are returned with the post mark "Moved, no forwarding address." Since this can cause considerable inconvenience to livestock owners, it is very important that the brand office be kept informed of any change of address. Once a brand has expired for a certain period of time it may be allotted to someone else with the result that two people may be using the same brand at the same time. The individual who allowed it to expire is, of course, using it illegally.

Beauty Queen Gets 12 Months

LONDON — Austrian beauty queen Johanna Ehrenstrasser was sentenced to 12 months in jail for stealing almost £7,000 worth of furs and jewelry in a shoplifting spree.

The defence argued vainly that the blond, 21-year-old actress, Miss Europe of 1958, was the victim of a reducing drug she had been taking since last June to preserve her 37-22½-37 figure.

"It exhilarates and gives a sense of irresponsibility," the court was told by a psychiatrist, Dr. Clifford Allen, at a January hearing. "I think this girl has only misbehaved —if she has misbehaved—because she had taken this drug."

Socialism Moving Right?

All over the world there are indications that an abandonment of some of the principal concepts of socialism is taking place.

Although as yet this is confined to some of the intelligent socialist leaders, for the most part, it is significant. The best example of this trend can be seen in the behavior and statements of High Gaitskill, head of the labor (Socialist) Party in Great Britain.

Recently, he has suggested that the Labor Party change its basic dogma, with a clear statement that the Labor Party does not intend to take over everything. This position —taken by the leader of the Labor Party— has caused a split in the Labor Party which has not been equalled in some thirty years.

The same process is taking place in Japan. A new party has been organized in Japan, and this group is not willing to go as far, along the socialist road, as the traditional socialist in Japan.

In Germany, something of the same thing is afoot. The socialist party in West Germany has capitulated to the trend.

This series of developments—along with recent elections in Canada, the United States and Great Britain, which showed that the voters were tending toward conservative policies, is influencing the thinking of politicians everywhere.

It even has its repercussions on the United States' political scene, pertaining to the 1960 presidential election. There are those who believe that the result of this trend will make it inevitable that a moderate will won the 1960 election.

Whether these conclusions are justified and accurate, only time will tell. However, it seems that the day of the leftwingers is certainly not getting closer, but drawing farther away.

A Good Note

The Rev. Dr. E. G. Hansell, MLA is certainly making his mark in the Alberta Legislature. As a former Member of Parliament of long standing, he brings to the House an accomplished parliamentary manner and the ability to analyse and speak on varied topics of public importance.

Last week we note he spoke pointedly on the subject of education, and warned of a trend toward more progessivist programs and the indoctrination of our children with collectivist ropaganda. He deplored also the apparent depreciation of religious effort in school.

He urged also a thorough study of the Cormack Minority Report, which was part of the product of the Cameron Royal Commission on Education.

We support him here. Mr. Cormack, in essence, took the part of the parents on the Commission, and finding other members of it unwilling to integrate his ideas in their main report, he perforce was obliged to publish them in a Minority Report.

We have heard complaints from various sources that the main report is flavored too heavily with the philosophy of the professional educationist as opposed to the teacher. And it is a well known fact that since the advent of these professionals early in the Century, they have worked hard to arrogate to themselves as aspects of education -- including what they call the whole child.

There is one hold-out in the USA against this movement -- Princeton University, we are told, refuses to open a faculty of education. There prevails the age-old faith that a sound liberal education plus a course in teaching and classroom administration is the best foundation for a teacher. There also is retained the fundamental truth that the State is really an agent of the parents in handling education. How many of our parents today realize this?

Printing is a dangerous device to those who do not want their opinions permanently recorded.

Our frank advice is that everybody beware of the conclusions expressed in our editorial columns.

With Doctor Nationalism

An ambassador of one of the new Asiatic nations in Edmonton a few week ago told of the difficulties which face people who suddenly find themselves charged with the problems of self-government on democratic lines. In his land it failed and in its place is coming a sort of "guided" democracy, which means a modified dictatorship with the apparent aim of educating the people to full democracy.

The story can be repeated many times. Pakistan, Indonesia, Burma, Ceylon and in some African states, democracy has been a shaky experiment in some cases dropped entirely.

As our cartoonist suggests, witch doctor nationalism is at the root of much of the trouble -- both the swelling tide of nationalism and the failure of newly-enfranchised people to assume the responsibilities they covet so avidly.

The puzzling feature of this situation to us is that the Communists and far-left wingers are loudest in their support of these nationalist aims, at the same time as they are working might and main to kill democracy and national government where it works. Quite obviously, they want immature Asian and African governments to take over, because in the confusion that may result, their own brand of internationalism takes root.

The end result, of course, is not the freedom these young nations think they are achieving.

Pensions For Farmers

The time has come when some forward thinking government should appoint the experts to devise a pension plan for farmers, and all others small private enterprisers who are at present unprotected by a pension plan.

Before the cry goes up that "It can't be done" we suggest that the objections look back. Somebody said the same about motor cars, airplanes, old age pensions, workmen's compension, free schooling and rust-resistant wheat.

Such a farmer pension plan would involve a contribution, so why not a contribution of his production -- a percentage of his marketed grain, or livestock, dairy or poultry produce? Properly organized, this would be a comparatively painless method of creating a pension fund.

If our farmers could retire at 65 or 70 with the old age pension, plus an extra $100 or $150 a month, they would look with more than apprehension at their coming sunset years.

Buy Home Produce

The British Columbia government is spending $150,000 this year to persuade citizens to buy home grown produce. Rumor has it this is an election year but we like to think that the Bennett government is not wholly interested in votes.

Likewise, we note that the long-dormant slogan of "What Alberta Makes, Makes Alberta" has been taken out of mothballs and a series of small advertisements is pushing Alberta made goods. But we do not see a great deal of advertising devoted to the home consumption of farm produce, and maybe this will come in time. The home market is always a good market for the farmer. It too should be developed.

PLAIN NONSENSE

In the January 9 issue of your paper you have printed a letter from a certain "B. Skagen" in Voice of the People.

We people of the Falher High school feel that this letter is plain nonsense and cannot approve of such publication in "our" paper.

We therefore sign in disagreement and make no attempts at answering this gentleman's letter, as any intelligent person cannot fail to see through it what it really contains: venom and frustration.

DRINKING

I feel sorry for the young folks of today. You can see in many homes where the parents are out drinking. A lot of father's give their children beer to start them drinking. When teenagers get picked up for drunken driving the government makes money with fines they have to pay.

So when you add it up, it is the father and the government that is ruining the teenager today.

MOTHER

FARM WIFE ON "PAY"

I am writing to you to see if you agree with my opinion of this subsidy to be paid to the farmers by the government. I should say "supposed to be paid" as there are quite a few "'ifs" and "ors" to it, known only to the farmer after he has applied for this.

We now find that if a farmer pastured his cattle on the crop he could not get off, or was not worth taking off, he will not receive payment of this money. What are we to do, let the cattle starve just to collect a few dollars from the government?

One man said this payment would make crooks out of farmers trying to make an easy dollar. Evidently this man was not a farmer and so far it has been like pulling teeth to get a few dollars that some will receive. I am sure a farmer would rather have a good crop which would net him three or four times as much money as he will get from this payment.

Another matter is this PFA. Why should we not receive this money in the fall? That is when we would have sold our grain. The farmers usually pay off their debts in the fall after the sale of cattle and grain.

We have received word that this will not be paid in our area until spring, after some more harvesting is done. I am sure that farmers would be better off without this system of someone else telling us when we will receive OUR money. All the good it does is give some one an office job. The money is taken off every load of grain hauled to the elevators whether we like it or not and then, when it is needed desperately, do we get it? No, we have to wait.

Our area was proclaimed a disaster area this summer due to lack of rains. The crops were poor and not worth harvesting, and all was done that could be done in the fall in order to feed the cattle.

Now we must wait until spring with their hopes, probably, that there will be quite a bit more harvesting done so payment will be lower.

What the farmers are doing to get by, who are straight grain farmers, I don't know. We who had cattle managed up until now but it is getting rougher all the time.

Well, I am just a housewife airing my opinions on those two subjects.I don't know how many agree with me but that is my view on the matter.

QUESTIONS FREE TRIPS

In a recent issue of your paper there was an editorial dealing with the duties, responsibilities and decorum of those in public life.

Perhaps you and your readers are not aware of a situation that should be brought out into the open concerning municipal and county councillors.

There are business organizations in Alberta who are providing expense-free trips to the United States for elected councillors under the guise of factory education. Is it right or is it wrong for any elected public official to be obligated to the extent of several hundred dollars to anyone doing business with the elected body of which he is a part?

This is a most important issue and especially so with the civic investigations at Calgary and Edmonton last year. At least in Calgary the ratepayers made it clear that their mayor would have to be beyond reproach in this respect.

"Interested," Edmonton.

PEEVED

Anybody 'Et By A Wolf?

By T. W. PUE

Earlier this month a story in the papers and on the radio almost destroyed my faith in the Canadian wolf as a kind, mild-mannered and gentle animal.

T. W. PUE

It had to do with a bulldozer operator in the Swan Hills who claimed he had been attacked by a wolf.

Later, the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests denied the report that a wolf had attacked a man, and it's a good thing they did.

Because my trust in the four-legged variety of wolf has been restored. I have never actually heard of an instance where a wolf has attacked a human.

As a boy on the farm of my grandfather in the Moose Mountains in Saskatchewan I remember the plaintive wolf calls every evening. Grandfather used to trap and shoot wolves but the animals never attacked him.

Grandfather would have been a disciple of the late Joe Curran, former editor of the Daily Star at Sault Ste. Marie. For forty years this able newspaperman was a champion of the wolves in his district. He denied as outright lies and careless rumours stories of wolves attacking men. His pet saying was "Any man who says he's been 'et by a wolf is a liar".

Of course, Joe had us all dead-to-rights there. Because anybody who's been "et" by a wolf is already dead and the live ones make liars of themselves just by being alive.

So, any reader of this column who knows of anyone who has been attacked by a wolf—let me know won't you so I can publish the details.

For the ladies—I must point out that all this has to do with the kind, considerate and harmless breed of 4-legged wolf. The 2-legged variety is another subject.

Mechanical Know-How Helps Jake Nordheimer Helps Case Customers

Jake Nordheimer will draw from years of experience with things mechanical as he describes the new 1960 Case line at Open House Thursday, March 31, and Friday, April 1. The two-day showing will be held in the J. I Case building, 111 Avenue and 120 Street, between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

He will be speaking on behalf of J.N. Farm Equipment, 5524-104 Street, which he has operated for five years at this location.

Jake grew up among machines. He can remember helping his father build plows and democrats (a two-seater buggy with springs). Many persons will recall when Nordheimer Manufacturer's used to make bulldozers and overhead loaders for the Caterpillar company.

Jake started with Case back in 1951 and, although he admits there are many hours of hard work required, he finds it very satisfying. He meets people from all parts of northern Alberta as he sells and services Case farm machinery.

Kurt Gohl is in the service department. Kurt is an old country mechanic and an expert at diesel work.

For farmers who live in South Edmonton, Jake Nordheimer explains, they can order parts for their Case equipment as they pass along 104 Street to go into the city to shop. Then, on their way home, they can pick up their parts.

There is always a good selection of used machinery too, says Jake, which has been overhauled and put in good running order. This and round-the-clock service makes J. N. Farm Equipment a good place to buy the new 1960 Case line.

One day I asked my high school son to take the real estate tax money into town to his grandmother, who would take it to the tax collector's office. When I called her she said he had not left it but she would go over to the school and get it right away.

At school she rang the bell and the whole student body came running out. She had touched off the fire alarm.

I felt that all eyes were admiring me as my husband helped me remove my coat when, glancing down, I suddenly discovered that over my dress I was wearing a torn apron that I had forgotten to remove.

Duke Of Ottawa Could Be Name

MANCHESTER — The possibility of the royal baby ultimately becoming known as Duke of Ottawa is discussed by the Guardian.

The paper, in an article mentioning several choices says:

"Canada's special interest would be easy to argue. It was during the Queen's tour of that country that her condition became known, and Mr. Diefenbaker was one of the first to share the secret."

The Guardian's first choice, however, appears to be the Duke of York. It notes that this is the tradition for second sons.

Japs Blame Poor Canadian Milk

TOKYO — An education ministry official told a Diet (parliament) committee that poor packaging of powdered milk imported from Canada was responsible for an outbreak of mass diarrhea among school children in Okayama.

Kohei Shimizu, director of the education ministry's physical education bureau said that of about 2,700 tons of skim milk powder imported from Canada, 95 tons arrived in broken polyethylene bags and 245 tons were found to be of inferior quality.

Some 115 school children suffered from acute diarrhea last week after dringing the milk.

Before running out to the store for something I had forgotten I warned my four-year-old son not to open the door to strangers.

As I had forgotten to take a key with me I knocked on the door for admittance, only to be greeted with the question "Are you a stranger?"

When I curtly replied "No," my son said "Keep talking—I need more evidence."

"I can't go slowly because I have fast feet," he said.

To Give Trophy For Home Improvement

Supervisor of horticulture P. D. McCalla of the Alberta department of agriculture is one of three judges appointed in connection with the recently announced competition for the Pineridge farm home improvement trophy. Other judges are Dr. J. H. Whyte, director of the University of Alberta's Botanic Garden at Devon, and K. G. Ewart, field supervisor for the municipal district of Stony Plain.

The Pineridge trophy will be offered in a farm home and home grounds improvement project sponsored by H. A. Dyde QC of Edmonton, with competition confined to farm residents of the municipal district of Stony Plain. As a landowner in this municipality, Mr. Dyde has a special interest in its progress and welfare. It was he who presented to the University of Alberta the land which made the botanic garden possible.

Accent in the competition will be on improvement, so that a farm at present in a modest state will have equal chance with one that is in an advanced state of improvement. Initial judging will begin May 1 and the final judging will start August 1. Taken into account will be buildings, plantings, general tidiness, fences, lawns, flowers and improvements to approaches and general farm frontage. Work done this spring will be credited to the contestent.

Keen interest is anticipated and full particulars may be obtained from the Stony Plain municipal office.

Canadian Utilities Complete Line To Swan Hills

Canadian Utilities, Limited, have announced the completion of the 86 mile voltage transmission line from the company's 10,000 kilowatt Sturgeon generating plant to Swan Hills in northwestern Alberta.

The 69,000 volt line, built at a cost of $800,000, was brought into service on March 9. The new line, made necessary to meet growing power demands, will provide an adequate source of electricity to the rapidly growing oilfields and townsite in Swan Hills.

The major part of the construction was done by company crews with assistance provided by independent contractor. Work began in October of 1959, and was hampered in the earlier stages of construction, due to unseasonally mild weather causing soft muskeg footing, preventing use of heavy equipment. Despite these obstacles, crews made remarkable progress and completed the transmission line a month before the original target date.

This area was previously supplied with electric service from an isolated diesel generating plant, installed by Canadian Utilities in October 1958.

Indonesia was a possession of the Netherlands for more than 300 years before it became independent in 1949.

Group To Conduct Cattle Research

Welcomed by Alberta's Minister of Agriculture, the Honourable L. C. Halmrast, as a further step towards improvement of Alberta cattle quality was a legislative resolution recently approved.

In the resolution, use was proposed of funds from the Horned Cattle Trust Account for beef cattle breeding research, a principle endorsed by the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, the Farmers Union of Alberta, and the Western Stock Growers Association. As a result, funds will be available for expansion of cattle breeding experiments by animal scientists at the University of Alberta.

Don't Burn Fescue Stubble, Farmers Told

Don't burn the fescue seed crop aftermath, advises Forage Crop specialist C. R. Elliott, of the Beaverlodge experimental farm.

He says that tests have shown that spring burning of the straw usually results in serious loss of seed yield. Instead, he advises that the aftermath be removed following seed harvest and that role is best done by cutting the crop for hay.

This practice has produced seed yields of 496 lbs. per acre compared with 282 lbs. per acre where the hay is not removed.

Albertans Can Have Choice TCA's 7 Religous Tours

Trans-Canada Air Lines is offering seven religious tours to the ancient shrines of Europe this summer—four to the famed Oberammergau Passion Play and three to the 37th International Eucharistic Congress in Munich, Germany.

All seven tours include visits to Rome, the Eternal City, and the many historic monuments to the Christian faith that adorn its classical hills; Lourdes and the Miraculous Grotto, the world's most revered shrine and the ultimate destination of thousands of journeys of faith and hope; and Fatima, the Shrine of Our Lady, in Portugal.

An audience with His Holiness, Pope John XXIII, has been requested for each group through the North American College in Rome.

The 22 and 23-day tours of the Passion Play at Oberammergau take in London, Paris, Lourdes, Barcelona, Rome, Munich, Obermergau and Zurich, departing Montreal May 1, May 29, June 26 and August 7.

The 29 and 31-day tours of the Eucharistic Congress include London, Paris, Lourdes, Barcelona, Lisbon, Rome, Vienna, Venice, Oberammergau, Munich, Frankfurt and Salzburg in the itineraries, depending upon which tour is chosen. They depart Montreal on July 10, July 17, and July 31.

The little red schoolhouse of bygone days was always painted red because that color of paint was the cheapest.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

Question: In what way is the Old Testament connected with the New Testament ? E.D.

Answer: Someone has said: "The New was in the Old concealed, and the Old was in the New revealed." This explains fairly well connection between the two. The New Testament is an unfolding of the prophetic utterances of the Old Testament. For example, Isaiah said: "Behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel." In Matthew 1:18 we read: "Now the birth of Jesus was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost."

The New Testament is the Book of Grace, but the Old Testament was a Book of Law. God is not only "just" as revealed in the Old Testament, but He is Love, as revealed in the New.

But to get a complete picture we should read both the Old and New Testament. In the Old Testament we see man's inability to keep the Commandments and precepts of God. In the New Testament we are told of Christ's finished work on the Cross, and how He has provided an inner power which enables us to keep God's commandments. The Old Testament shows the weakness of man, but the New Testament reveals the love and [illegible] God.

Weird Teachings At Coast School Disclosed By Girl

Marylie Foy, 17, found she was hopelessly unequipped for matriculation after spending four years at a private college in Vancouver although a university professor says she has an intelligence level nearing genius.

Her disclosure of weird teachings at the Canadian Temple Collegiate of the Church of the More Abundant Life raised a storm of protest and superintendent Dr. Robert Voice said the school will close because of "slanted publicity."

Head of the church and pastor of the school is William Wolsey, 56, who describes himself as "Archbishop John I of Vancouver" and claims a long list of titles, degrees and distinctions. Marylie was told by high school officials she would have to do grades 10, 11 and 12 again.

Small Crowd Hears Evangelist Graham

JERUSALEM — Evangelist Billy Graham preached to one of the smallest audiences of his African-Middle Eastern tour in this ancient Holy Land city.

Slightly more than 1,000 listeners heard the American evangelist in the Lutheran church inside the walls of Jordan - controlled Old Jerusalem. Only about 75 made "decisions for Christ."

The crowd was sympathetic but lacked the enthusiasm of some 10,000 Egyptians who heard Graham's message in Cairo Sunday night. In this religious centre of many denominations evangelism is not new.

Loudspeakers carried Graham's message to the courtyard of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

J. S. Herschel, Tax Consultant

FILING RETURNS

Income Tax Returns must be filed at a District Taxation Office not later than April 30th, 1960.

The Return must be complete, and income from all sources must be shown. Further, the Return should be properly prepared with attached schedules of income, expenses, wages and board paid, a schedule of capital cost allowance, schedule of Real Estate Rentals, schedule of investments, etc. where applicable together with any other income earned and dividends, whether cash or accrued and the prudent taxpayer will include a balance sheet with his Return.

A balance sheet discloses a taxpayer's assets, liabilities and net worth at the end of every year and proves his income as reported together with his drawing account (amount of money used for cost of living personal use etc. during the year.)

Jeff Herschel

Making a false or deceptive return is a serious offence under the Income Tax Act and punishable by a fine up to $10,000 and/or imprisonment up to two years.

The certificate that one signs at the bottom of the Return, quote "I hereby certify that the information given in this Return and in any documents attached is true, correct and complete in every respect, and fully discloses my income from all sources", played an important part in a recent tax case that was appealed by the Crown from an acquittal in magistrate's court.

The case against the taxpayer hinged on the certificate of complete disclosure as set out on the T-1 Form and as outlined above, the allegation being that important information had been withheld. Briefly the evidence showed that certain sales of used commodities had not been reported as income and the taxpayer employing a single entry system had been his own bookkeeper, but had engaged accountants to prepare his Returns. The court found as a fact that the taxpayer had failed to inform his accountants of the sale of these commodities and he was found guilty and a fine of $100 plus costs amounting to $500 was levied.

The taxpayer is responsible for his own Return and should make doubly sure that he knows that the information contained in it is correct. A good policy is to treat your income tax Return like you would a blank cheque—never sign it unless you know what is on it.

It is recommended that when preparing an income tax Return, a qualified tax practitioner (he carries professional indemnity insurance) should be consulted. The tax paid, if any, will be the legal minimum tax and it may save the taxpayer a great deal of confusion or trouble at some future date.

FIERY Quebec Senator Jean Francois Pouliot (right) has aroused the House of Commons by describing the theories of world-famous historian Arnold Toynbee (left) as "such trash." New Ornamentals Available In West

Approximately 50 new varieties of ornamentals will soon be available to Alberta gardeners. This announcement was made at the Western Canadian Society of Horticulture, held recently in Saskatoon. The society is composed of both professional and enthusiastic amateur horticulturists from the prairie provinces.

The new varieties of chrysanthemums, included in this list of ornamentals, are very hardy specimens. In addition to blooming late into the fall they also come in a wide variety of colours.

The Brooks horticultural station has submitted a new low-growing juniper shrub which promises to prove particularly useful for landscaping. Improved selections of roses, honeysuckles, lilies and gladiolus are also being introduced shortly.

Study Of Markets Made By Farmers

Farming is an industry and should be regarded as such by those who are directly associated with it. The chamber of commerce endeavours to help this industry across Canada and seeks a better way of life for all classes, stated Dave Hunter, Athabasca, president of the Alberta chamber of commerce.

Mr. Hunter was addressing the recent seventh annual agriculture and home economics short course sponsored by the Alberta Department of Agriculture, the Edmonton chamber of commerce and the Edmonton Exhibition Association. The topic at this year's course centred around gearing production to available markets.

The panel discussing the field crop production saw with increasing population no increased need for wheat production but a slight increase in the coarse grains. Because of changing food habits there will be a shift to increased livestock production.

As alternate cash crops for the immediate future there is a limited market for rape and flax. Forage crop seed production also offers some opportunity. It was emphasized that more farmers should be using pedigreed seed for additional production benefits.

In gearing of livestock production to available markets the panel stressed that the consumer was becoming more aware of top quality in meat with less regard for price. Until producers market the majority of livestock at public markets the price structure will continue to be unrealistic. This results from a limited demand on a small supply that is now brought to public markets.

It was stressed that the increased livestock quality problem can be solved by better breeding and that there must be more management research on concentrated livestock production.

Urge End To Tax Exemptions

Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke told the legislature's private bills committee the provincial municipal advisory committee has recommended that tax exemptions by the legislature be abolished.

Uniformity in some matters is essential, he said, but the present system of having the house grant exemptions has not produced uniformity.

The committee was considering a bill to grant tax exemption on 52 acres of land belonging to the Canadian Union College at Lacombe. The college plans to build dormitories for married students on the land.

The committee asked that an amendment be made in the proposed bill, reducing the amount of land to 20 acres that could be exempt should the construction of the dormitories take place. The bill will appear again for study by the committee at its next meeting.

Mr. Hooke said the government is bothered by the extent to which tax exemptions have been given to various institutions. He said the original intention to relieve religious organizations of taxes has been extended to many non-religious groups.

Gift Property Subject To Tax

Don't forget when giving away property that it may be subject to gift tax. This holds true even in case of a gift of land from a farmer to his son. It is equally important to remember to register all gifts on income tax returns as this record may be needed later when estate taxes (formerly succession duties) are being calculated.

Gifts should not be left until the last moment, particularly if a substantial amount of property is involved, advises Alberta's farm management specialist T. A. Petersen. Any gift made within three years of the donor's death will be included in the value of his estate for estate tax purposes.

A gift up to $4,000 or one-half of the difference between the taxable income of the proceeding year and the amount of income tax paid, whichever is the greater, may be made, free of gift tax, to any one person in a given year. In addition to this any number of gifts may be made providing the amount to any one person does not exceed $1,000.

In June of 1958 an amendment was made to part IV of the Income Tax Act which allows a man to make a gift of property worth up to $10,000, free of gift tax, to his wife or one of his children. This gift, which can only be made once in a lifetime, is not subject to the ruling that it must be made three years prior to the donor's death.

Slim Says

By SLIM LAYLEY

The Hon. Norman Willmore certainly stirred things up among the farmers and hunters in his speech in the legislature a couple of weeks ago.

His remarks on farm-hunter relations are particularly ridiculous in view of the fact that only 20% of the members of the Fish and Game Association are from the cities of Edmonton and Calgary. The remaining 80% are from the smaller cities, towns and villages that are entirely dependent on agriculture, and farmers are among the most active of the members.

Slim Layley

His remarks on the question of deer damage are equally ridiculous. The prospect of our Alberta farmers defending their lives and property from rampaging deer, armed with Willmore guns (all bang, no bullet), is one that should be a "gift from the gods" to our humorous cartoonists.

Out at Viking the other night, the Fish and Game boys had a night out. Their "Head Push", Sid Lathrop, spoke on the subjects of farmer-hunter relationship, conservation, and the need for wilderness areas. Sid is an exceptionally good speaker and obviously knows what he is talking about.

The committee did a good job of organization. One pleasing point was the way they had rounded up all the youngsters and put them in the front rows.

Ad Oeming presented a show that held them spellbound for an hour and a half. After that they got loose end, after they had finished with Oeming, he looked as though his friend Gene Kiniski had been working him over!

Oeming is a great guy, he loves those kids as much as they love him and it is same to bet that if they can learn all that he can teach them they will grow up to be men, not mice or juvenile delinquents.

The milder weather will be bringing the anglers out again at the weekends. A few hardy souls were out during the cold spell, but I have not heard of any startling catches.

Coyote hunting is now at its best. One lad is reported to have taken five in one day on the open marshes a few miles north of Clyde.

Reports of a timber wolf hanging around just north of the city limits seem to be well founded, it having been seen at close quarters by at least one man who should know a wolf when he sees one.

Now is the time to get after the crows and magpies before the leaves come out. These pests are murder on game birds' eggs, worse than all the other predators put together. With all the hunters there are in this province, it should not be necessary to resort to poison to thin them down.

The latest wildlife film, "Land of the Black Bears," which makes its Canadian debut at the Jubilee Auditorium in April 5, is terrific. It is easily the best that has ever been produced in Alberta. Some of the scenes will be familiar to people who know something of the Alberta Rockies, but seen through the eyes of one of Europe's leading naturalists, and filmed by a master craftsman, the impact is terrific.

Better book seats early if you want to see it or you aure won't get in.

While many animal lovers question whether a dog should live outdoors in an unheated house during cold weather, everyone agrees it is important to protect the animal from drafts. The pattern offered below simplifies building a house that provides year round protection. To keep the wind and rain from blowing into the sleeping compartment, an interior partition is placed at right angles to the front opening. The animal's body heat tends to keep the sleeping area comfortable even in the worst weather. Another excellent feature is the removable panel at one end of the sleeping chamber which can be replaced with a screen during warm weather. This not only simplifies cleaning living quarters, but permits a free flow of air during dog days.

Even though the front entry was designed to accommodate a German Shepard, Collie or Doberman, it can be cut to size required.

Send 75c for pattern No. 28 dog house to Carpentry Dept., Edmonton Sun, 280 Maitland St., London, Ont. Send additional 55c for 32 page catalog illustrating over 300 other build it yourself projects.

Arlo Rape Being Recommended

The Canadian department of agriculture, Saskatoon, has recommended the use of Golden and A rape.

The department has tested more than 100 rape varieties over the past five years and will recommend only those with good yields per acre of seed with a high oil content.

Arlo matures two to three weeks earlier than either Golden rape or Marquis wheat which eases the crowded harvest schedule and avoids the danger of an early fall frost. It is also a means of controlling wild oats through delayed seeding or by removing the crop before the oats shatter.

Newbrook Observatory Anxious Receive Reports On Meteorite

So far at least 282 pounds of the Bruderheim - Redwater meteorite have been reported officially. However, almost certainly some more fragments have been found and not yet reported. The staff of the Newbrook Meteor Observatory and Dr. R. Folinsbee of the Geology Department of the University of Alberta in Edmonton are anxious to have all fragments found, to be officially catalogued and weighed.

Dr. Folinsbee is in charge of buying fragments for the university from those wishing to sell, in trying to piece the fragments together to determine their total weight. Those who have fragments and don't wish to sell them or donate them are asked to contact Dr. Folinsbee or the Newbrook observatory so that they can be catalogued and weighed.

It is urged all fragments be kept intact as breaking them up reduces their value. The staff at the Newbrook observatory are anxious to hear reports from people who had actually sighted the meteorite or heard the explosion, or found a crater.

All suspected meteorite fragments should be reported. It's possible more fragments may be found after the spring thaw, at which time some of them may have turned reddish in color.

While meteorite fragments have very little value for their mineral content, they have important scientific value as known meteorite falls are generally rare.

During colonial days, many householders kept their valuable papers at home in the secret sections of desks that were specially built for them.

3 Steps To A Better Lawn

Will your 1960 lawn be a bright green carpet from early May until the end of the gardening season, or will it be a continuous source of irritation with its unattractive appearance?

In the current issue of The Star Weekly gardening expert John Bradshaw lists three easy-to-do steps that will practically guarantee you a luxurious lawn this year.

FEEDING

Nitrogen is the real key to a vigorous, rich green lawn, but phosphorus and potash are also needed.

AERATING

Lawns which have been in sod for a number of years gradually become hard and compact. Even light sandy soils will form a crust. This means water and fertilizer can no longer penetrate and the only answer is to aerate your lawn as soon as it is workable.

FILLING IN

As soon as the frost leaves the soil this spring, loosen the bare spots of your lawn with a garden fork or similar tool. Then buy a bushel or more commercial top soil mixture and add one pound of complete fertilizer. Mix in a pound of the best grass seed you can buy and your're ready.

This interesting and informative Star Weekly article gives full details of each step — and readers who would like the pleasure of a perfect lawn this spring and summer would be well to follow John Bradshaw's simple instructions.

Nordheimer Farm Equipment Shows New Case Line At Open House

Alberta farmers will want to look at the new line of 1960 Case farm equipment when Nordheimer Farm Equipment, 12011-111 Avenue hold open house in Edmonton next week end.

A number of films showing Case machinery in action will be run between 9 and 6 on Thursday, March 31, and Friday, April 1 in the J. I. Case building where Nordheimer Farm Equipment is located.

H. Nordheimer

Henry Nordheimer, who has customers from all over northern Alberta, will be on hand to answer questions, and tell about the full stock of parts and the excellent maintenance and repair service available.

Henry, who has been in the Case business about eight years, also has a lot at 158 Street and 111 Avenue where there are shop facilities and a display area for new and used machinery.

"Scotty" Cameron, who has ample experience in the farm business, including six years on special sales with John Deere, has been with Henry for two years.

Rudy Klemp has been four years in servicing Case equipment for Henry. Gordon Hollinger, parts-man, came from the International company.

Henry, who holds the trophy for highest dealer sales in Canada in 1953, is the holder of three other trophies for high sales—all backed by expert service to new and used machinery. He has visited the factory at Racine, Wisconsin, and other parts of the U.S. and shared in annual dealer trip to Phoenix, Arizona; Nassau, Bahamas, Bal Harbor, Florida, and says he is grateful for the volume of business farmers have given him which enabled him to go on them.

Phosphorus Aid To Uniform Crop Growth

Increased yield and earlier ripening are two of the advantages that have accrued from the use of phosphorus fertilizer on wheat following fallow in the Peace River region. But that is not all. Recent research by Cerealist Dr. A. A. Guitard of the Beaverlodge Experimental Farm is showing that more uniform stands also occur.

These results did not appear in a search for added advantages of fertilizer use but as a side issue to one of the big problems of the agricultural scientists — control of host conditions by reduction of the many variables. Soils are by no means uniform and within very short distances differences occur.

Dr. Guitard was seeking reasons for some of the differences occurring in wheat growth on his experimental plots. Knowing from previous experiment the effect of phosphorus on yield and ripening and knowing also the lack of soil uniformity, he surmised that lack of available phosphorus might be having an effect.

Application of 50 pounds per acre of ammonium phosphate (11-48-0) reduced the number of days from seeding to heading and to ripening ,and increased yield, height and kernel weight. There was much less variation in and between the rows when phosphorus was applied, and the uniformity resulting added appreciably to the reliability of the tests conducted.

But the uniformity, as well as being of value on the experimental plots is also of value on the farm. It means more even growth, uniform height and uniform ripening, all of which are particularly useful in these days of extensive combine use.

Purchasers of timbered lands must take out a permit subject to the usual dues and fees before cutting any timber except for their own use.

Sand or gravel must not be removed from the lands sold until a permit has been obtained from the proper authorities and payment made of the required fee and dues.

The sales will only convey the surface rights of the land and will be subject to the usual reservations in favour of the Crown.

The sale shall convey to the purchaser only those improvements upon the land which are the property of the Crown at the date of sale. All such improvements are fixtures and shall remain on the land and be the property of the Crown and shall not be removed or destroyed until final payment of the land has been made.

U.I.C. Replies To Workers' Problems

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Q. I am separated from my husband and have custody of my six year old daughter. By court order my husband contributes $80 a month for the support of myself and our child. I have been working steadily for the past two years. If I become unemployed, would I be entitled to the dependency rate, as I know my husband lists her as a dependent on his income tax forms.

A. You would be entitled to the dependency rate if you established that your contribution to the support of the child is greater than that of your husband and that you mainly support her.

Cancer Cure Is Foreseen

Dr. J. H. Quastel of Montreal, one of Canada's leading cancer research scientists, said he is confident a cure for cancer will be found within the next 10 years.

The statement was issued through the Canadian Cancer Society which described it as one of the most optimistic to be made in some time. The statement, said the society, is indicative of the steady pace of progress which has been evident in laboratories where vital cancer research experiments are under way.

"I would bet every penny I have in the bank that within the next 10 years we'll have this thing licked," said Dr. Quastel.

Dr. Quastel, director of the McGill-Montreal General Hospital research institute, oversees eight separate cancer research projects with a Canadian Cancer Society grant of $44,250.

Trees Available From Nurseries

There are still a limited number of trees available from the provincial nurseries at both Brooks and Oliver for farmstead shelter belts, field windbreaks and road side shelter belts.

Colorado spruce, white spruce, Manitoba maple, green ash, American elm, Russian olive, chokecherry, European red elder, Hungarian lilac and the common lilac are the species from which you may make your choice.

All the trees are supplied, free of charge, providing the land where they are to be planted was summer fallowed last year. Anybody desiring to plant a shelter belt or windbreak this spring should contact P. D. McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture, Field Crops Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton. Requests should be sent in as soon as possible.

OUR 63rd YEAR

it's a FACT

The game of chess is the oldest of all games of pure mental skill—a game in which chance cannot enter. One of the first books, if not the first, published in England was a book on chess printed in 1474 by William Caxton. The game was first brought into prominence in the United States by Benjamin Franklin.

—Encyclopaedia Britannica

Progress Through Research

Canadians and milk just naturally go together, like a Frenchman and wine or a German and beer. And dairymen are rightly concerned with keeping up the flow of milk from the farm to a nation of milk drinkers.

But each year, farmers with problem dairy cows lose a staggering amount of both milk and money because of failure of their cows to conceive. Department of agriculture estimates that loses due to infertility amount to at least $25 million a year.

A dairy cow must be pregnant to maintain milk production. Losses from problem cows occur because the period between calving and the next conception is unduly extended. That means farmers must spend a lot of money feeding and taking care of a cow that is not producing. For one cow, the amount runs about $30.

Recently, though, researchers have come up with an antibiotic formula to help solve this problem. Research veterinarian Dr. E. M. Sacchi has found that the new formula - Embryostat - improves the conception rate by inhibiting bacterial development.

Dr. Sacchi reported in Antibiotics Annual 1957-58 that treatment of 113 repeat and difficult breeders with the antibiotic complex resulted in conception in 66 to 79 per cent of the animals after a single service.

To benefit from this new discovery, farmers should consult their veterinarians, whose diagnostic skills and techniques are required for a herd improvement program with Embryostat.

This new antibiotic is one more example of how research is constantly at work to make our world a better place — in this instance, by helping farmers solve an important problem that will keep milk on your table.

Question Value Alberta Town Planning In The Legislature

The question of town planning came up before the public accounts committee of the Alberta legislature. Ernest Hansell (SC — Okotoks - High River) said he wonders "whether we are getting our money's worth" from the $207,278 spent by the municipal affairs department on town planning during the last fiscal year.

Provincial treasurer E. W. Hinman replied that the province makes professional planning services available to smaller towns and villages, adding that the service is "very much in demand."

Provincial Auditor C. K. Huckvale explained that $100,836 went toward the operation of six district planning commissions. Calgary received $30,719, Edmonton $29,250, Red Deer $19,000 and Medicine Hat $10,954.

Highways minister Gordon Taylor said the vale of town planning has been "seriously underestimated." He said all you have to do is "look at the mess we were in a few years ago."

Towns had been developed throughout Canada and the United States without established grade lines for buildings, Mr. Taylor said. These towns now "find themselves in a real bind" with buildings either too high or too low for the streets that pass by them.

Arthur Dixon (SC — Calgary Southeast) said many difficulties could be eliminated if town planners were required to make personal inspection of property before making decisions concerning use of it.

He referred to a Calgary area situation where a land-use application was refused without the planners even looking at the property.

Name Three More For Development

The Hon. A. Russell Patrick, minister of industy and development, has announced the appointment of three additional members to the department's Industrial Development Board.

The new appointees are: R. J. Nelson, representing the city of Lloydminster; L. D. Robinson representing the area of Wildwood to Hinton including the town of Edson, and George I. Loucks representing Ponoka. Mr. Loucks succeeds P. A. McKelvey who has resigned from the board. Lloydminster and Edson are being represented for the first time.

The Industrial Development Board now includes members from thirteen Alberta communities. Members from Wetaskiwin and Brooks are to be appointed in the near future to complete the board. The group meets twice each year to discuss Alberta's industrial development and to recommend ways and means of attracting new industry to the province.

Personal Effects Given To Edmonton

About 125 personal effects of Alberta's late Lieutenant Governor J. J. Bowlen were presented to the city of Edmonton.

The effects, presented by Mr. S. Mooney, included a writing desk he used from 1902, books, photographs, hats, reading glasses, pipe and tobacco pouch.

Most of the personal papers and files of Mr. Bowlen, who died last fall were donated earlier this week to the Glenbow foundation at Calgary.

Lacombe Swine Available

Thirty breeding groups of Lacombe swine will be made available to Canadian breeders through a public draw April 25.

Each group consists of three females and one boar. Officials stress only those interested in raising purebred Lacombe swine should apply especially since performance testing, which requires considerable record keeping, is necessary for registration.

Application forms and regulations may be obtained from the Lacombe experimental farm and deadline for application is April 19. A committee will select all applications that meet the conditions of the draw, and from these the new owners will be decided at Lacombe on April 25.

"Sell The Cows" Advice By Phone Startles Officials

EAST LANSING, Mich. — "Sell the cows and move out here, pa," said the woman's voice.

The words startled state police here because they were carried over a special telephone line set up by the government for national emergencies only.

"We could make out she was visiting Santa Monica, Calif., and he was somewhere where it was cold and snowing," said Sgt. C. W. Caukin.

The couple talked for about eight minutes about their children, cows and the weather.

The officer said civil defence officials at Colorado headquarters are trying to determine how the conservation got mixed up on the emergency line.

Not Thinking Cleaned Seed Types

Provincial seed grain (drill) surveys show farmers are not giving enough thought and attention to the type of seed they sow.

Too many prairie farmers are planting seed that has not been cleaned or treated and have no knowledge of its trueness to variety, ability to germinate, soundness and purity, Dr. F. J. Greaney, director of Line Elevators Farm Service in Winnipeg said.

"Surveys show that more than 80 per cent of the seed grain used in the prairie provinces is home-grown or obtained from a neighbor. Unfortunately, only a small proportion of this seed is cleaned to 'good seed' standards despite the fact it is possible, by proper cleaning, to markedly increase the value of home-grown seed for planting purposes," he said.

Seed Treatment Crop Protection

Seed treatment is very important this year because of the poor germination of grain harvested last fall. It is not a substitute for good seed but it does give seed a chance to do its best. At ten cents per acre seed treatment is one of the cheapest forms of crop protection.

Of the numerous commercial seed dressings now available, the mercurials are the best for cereals and flax, says J. B. Kurba, supervisor of crop protection and pest control for the Alberta department of agriculture. The non-mercurials can be used for bunt control in wheat and one type, Orthocide, is approved for flax. Directions on the labels must be followed carefully for effective and safe treatment.

Forage crops, potatoes and garden seed also benefit from seed treatment. Compounds such as Arasan, Orthocide and Spergon are recommended for these crops. They should be used strictly according to directions on the labels. Seed rot and seeding blight usually cause the most damage where forage crops, potatoes and garden seed are concerned, especially in cold wet soils where germination is slow and the seedlings have difficulty in taking hold. In the case of peas and beans, germination and seedling survival have often been doubled as a result of treatment of the seed.

Proper seed treatment will control seed-born diseases, prevent seed rot, seedling blight and also assure a more uniform germination. Municipal seed cleaning plants are equipped to treat seed at low costs for disease and wireworm control.

Hail Association Ends With Deficit

REGINA — Aggregate 1959 hail loss of more than $2,000,000 in Saskatchewan was reported to the Saskatchewan Municipal Hail Association.

The report said 4,904 claims were filed for storms on 51 days. More than 1,340 claims were received for damaged crops in 12 municipalities.

A $13,387 deficit in 1959 was reported.
